Maggie Eckel Named Among 50 Most Influential Women in Business by Long Island Business News

CENTEREACH, NY — Briscoe Protective Systems Inc. has announced that Maggie Eckel, Manager of Accounting and Compliance, has been named as one of 50 of Long Island's most influential women in business by Long Island Business News.

Ms. Eckel has over 20 years of experience in Business and Education, holding a Master's degree in Counseling from Long Island University and a Bachelor's degree in Accounting from Central Connecticut State University, graduating from both institutions with honors. She began her career in public accounting at KPMG Peat Marwick & Co. and held an accounting position at Cigna. She began working at Briscoe Protective Systems Inc. in 2010 and was promoted to Manager in 2011.

In addition to her work at Briscoe, Ms. Eckel is President of the Special Education Parent-Teacher Association, a Board Member of the School District Level PTA, and School District Board Approved Parent Member of the Committee for Special Education. In addition, she was a coach of the Northport Youth Center Soccer League and Northport Little League.

"I am so honored to be recognized by Long Island Business News," said Ms. Eckel. "Briscoe emphasizes its commitment to giving back to the community and I practice that by helping special-needs children meet their educational needs and getting involved in local children's lives through sports."

The Top 50 program, which launched in 2000, recognizes Long Island's top female professionals in business, education, government, and non-profit industries for their work in their fields, as well as in their community. The event will take place on October 17th at Crest Hollow Country Club in Woodbury, from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.
